Conference date: 2-3 December 2026

Justice Mbuyiseli Madlanga, who also served as Acting Deputy Chief Justice, retired from the Constitutional Court in 2026 after serving on the Court since 2013. During his tenure at the apex court, he authored approximately 65 judgments spanning a wide range of themes in constitutional and human rights law, as well as their interaction with other areas of South African law, including administrative, customary, criminal and commercial law. To honour his significant contribution to South Africa's constitutional jurisprudence, this conference brings together scholars and practitioners to present papers engaging with the various themes emerging from his judgments and to reflect on their significance for the future development of South African constitutional law. The keynote address will be delivered by Justice Jody Kollapen of the Constitutional Court of South Africa.
